blended versions of the tea are usually mixed with fruit or syrup, resulting in a slushy consistency. Chewy tapioca balls - also known as bubbles/pearls/boba - are often added, hence the name: bubble tea. While there are many other toppings, like Nata jelly, pudding, herbal jelly, the bubbles remain the crowd favorite.

In the early '90s, bubble tea was pervasive in Japan and Hong Kong. From there, international traders pushed the product into Chinatowns all over North America where it flourished. By 2000, a veritable boom was underway with bubble operations opening across the world, Ming's Bubble Tea included!

Bubble tea has evolved since its creation and, though we try to uphold the tradition, we are fearless in the face of change. We are here to innovate and push the boundaries of bubble tea in every cup! Hurry up and find your customized drink here!

This little hole in the wall is an absolute delight for any person, student or otherwise. The staff is always helpful, the owners a pleasure to speak to, and the drinks delicious. The environment is very unique, with a wall full of post it notes of personalized wishes, drawings, and quotes. What more could you ask for? Will continue to return until someone forcibly stops me.

OUR STORY

Ming's Bubble Tea is a veteran owned small business in Kent. At Ming's Bubble Tea, we only use premium loose tea leaves, no tea powders. We brew all of our teas in house. We make all of our drinks with fresh tea. We strive for authenticity. Our goal is to bring the highest quality tea and the finest taste to northeast Ohio.

DRINK TOPPINGS

TAPIOCA PEARLS

Tapioca, also known as “bubbles” or “boba,” is a fan favorite. It is made from tapioca starch boiled in water. Tapioca has a chewy and squishy texture, and is for the most part, tasteless.

POPPING BUBBLES

Unlike our tapioca based chewy bubbles, our popping bubbles burst juice in your mouth for a sweet splash of flavor. Popping bubble has a thin, gel-like skin with fresh juice inside that bursts when squeezed.
